Mission Statement of the American Nursing Informatics Association
The mission of ANIA is to advance nursing informatics through education, research, and practice in all roles and settings.

Introduction
The American Nursing Informatics Association (ANIA) is the association of professional nurses and associates who:

• Are committed to their specialty that integrates nursing science, computer science and information science to manage and communicate data, information, knowledge, and wisdom in nursing and informatics practice
• Identify informatics practice as a specialty that is essential to the delivery of high quality and cost-effective healthcare
• Are committed to their professional development and seek to actively engage in a community of like-minded professionals
• Use informatics to improve the health of populations, communities, families, and individuals by optimizing information management and communication

Membership is 3,200 nurses and other healthcare professionals in informatics practice and includes roles in system design and implementation, education, research (analysis and evaluation), standards and policy development, quality improvement, as well as those in management and administration.

Chapters
Members may join one of ANIA’s chapters. Chapters provide ANNA with a local and grassroots perspective of important issues in their area. Chapters also circulate important news and views between their members and the national office.

Educational Programs & National Events
Deliver relevant and meaningful education using multiple venues and delivery methods. Provide value to our members with nursing continuing professional development (NCPD) opportunities. Collaborate and partner with affiliate organizations (ANI, AONE, AMIA, HIMSS) to provide informatics education.

Upcoming Annual Conference Dates
- August 5-7, 2021: Marriott Marquis San Diego Marina
- May 10-12, 2023: Louisville Marriott Downtown
- May 9-11, 2024: Hyatt Regency Chicago

Journal of Informatics Nursing (JIN)
The Journal of Informatics Nursing (JIN) is the official publication of the American Nursing Informatics Association (ANIA). The digital journal is published quarterly for members of ANIA. Each issue offers a nursing continuing professional development (NCPD) activity, regular columns, and a variety of feature articles on various topics impacting nurse informaticists. Delivered as a digital edition, JIN allows readers to easily bookmark content, print resources, and share information.
Exhibiting
The Annual Conference takes place every spring and is recognized as one of the top events for nursing informatics professionals. Exhibitors have an outstanding opportunity to personally present their important sales and marketing message to hundreds of nurses who are working within clinical information systems, educational applications, data collection/research applications, administrative/decision support systems, and those who have an interest in the field of NI.
